

The R-Calendar

Dear Friend

A new type of Advent Calendar has recently caught my attention and I thought you might be excited to hear about it. It is a true US-product and is called "THE R-CALENDAR". You can choose from three different models: The Standard Model, the Robespierre-Model and the Buffalo-Bill-Model.

In the Standard-Model you find - as in every traditional advent calendar - 25 tiny doors and every day you open one of these beginning with the lowest number. And behind every tiny door you find - not a silly picture of a teddy bear or a candle - no, it is the head of an important Republican personality. For day 1 to 7 they have selected the heads of:

Georgia R Gov. Brian Kemp,
Attorney General William Barr,
Georgia Secretary of State Brad Raffensperger,
Cybersecurity and Infrastructure Security Agency (Cisa) chief Chris Krebs,
Attorney Lin Wood,
U.S. District Judge Linda Parker in Detroit,
U.S. District Judge Timothy Batten in Atlanta

These heads you have to tear out and discard. I haven't yet looked at the days that follow.

The Robespierre-Model is more elaborate. It is a 3-D-version of the Standard-Model with tiny little heads of the Republican dignitaries and you have to put these heads in a little contraption called "Guillotine". Be careful with your fingers. It is supposed to come from the time of Enlightenment. As the "Enlightenment" is not so popular in the US, the demand for this model is a bit limited.

Much more popular is the Buffalo-Bill-Model. As shown in the attached picture, you get for each day a metal plate with the name of a Republican exponent. Some people suggested that you might carry out shooting contests with them. At least there should be no shortage in ammunition in these days.

Sales have stalled a little bit when people discovered who is residing in number 25. I haven't checked myself but I guess it is - as in every decent advent calendar - the spiritual leader of the congregation.

Merry Christmas and a happier New Year
